ACADEMY for WOMEN ENTREPRENEURS

From Teenage Activist to Business Strategist:
Empowering Women Entrepreneurs for a Better Future

Ceylan Boyce's journey began as a passionate teenage activist, fighting for a better world and championing gender equality. This unrelenting drive to challenge the status quo shaped her path and continues to fuel her mission of economic empowerment for women. Today, Ceylan stands as one of the UK's top SME strategists, a renowned business growth expert, founder of the Academy for Women Entrepreneurs (AWE), and host of the celebrated 'She is AWEsome' podcast.

With a career rooted in senior executive roles in advertising and the successful leadership of her own consultancy, Ceylan recognised a glaring disparity in the entrepreneurial landscape. Despite being equally creative and capable, female entrepreneurs in the UK earn, on average, just one-third of their male counterparts and often struggle to surpass the £50K annual revenue benchmark (gov.uk). Fuelled by her belief that economic empowerment is the ultimate solution to gender inequality, Ceylan set out to change the game.

In 2019, she founded AWE with a bold mission: to democratise access to the tools, training, and networks that women entrepreneurs need to thrive. Under her leadership, AWE has become an award-winning, transformative platform that provides interactive workshops, dynamic networking opportunities, and tailored, step-by-step strategies designed to help female entrepreneurs unlock their potential and achieve extraordinary growth.

The results speak for themselves: Ceylan's clients are guaranteed to double their revenue, and in just two years, AWE has achieved remarkable milestones—serving a community of over 4,000 members, delivering more than 1,000 hours of workshops and coaching, and empowering hundreds of women entrepreneurs across the globe.

Ceylan's work goes far beyond business growth; it's about building a legacy of equality, resilience, and empowerment. Her unwavering commitment to transforming the lives of women entrepreneurs makes her a force for change, inspiring countless others to rewrite the narrative and build the future they deserve.
